

President Tener Raps Ban Johnson--McGraw Probe Will Not Be Made Public

PRESIDENT TENER AGAIN HANDS SLAP AT AMERICAN BOSS

Refers to Lack of Action on Lannin's Charges Against Umpires' Decisions.

McGRAW AFFAIR IS SECRET

National League Leader Refuses to Discuss Investigation Into Outburst.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Whatever investigation there may be of the McGraw charges in the last Brooklyn-Giant series will not be made public. Governor Tener, president of the National League, who on Wednesday refused to either deny or affirm that a conference will be held between himself, Hempstead, and McGraw to discuss the Brooklyn game, again was non-committal on the subject yesterday. Tener would not be pinned down to a direct statement.

Tener was told that one baseball official considered McGraw's statement after the much discussed Brooklyn game a graver offense than the one for which former President Fogel, of the Phillies was forced out of the National League in 1915.

"I cannot see the parallel between the two cases," said Tener. "As far as I can recall, Fogel was dropped from the National League for printed statements in which he accused the umpires of deliberately favoring New York; in other words, charging them with dishonesty."

"But it seems they no longer discipline club presidents for making such statements," continued Tener. "I was referring to the printed statements of President Lannin, of the Red Sox in which he charged the American League umpires of regularly giving decisions against the Red Sox and declared he would sell out if the Red Sox did not win the American League pennant."

"At least I notice they no longer think such charges need an investigation. And I haven't seen the president dropped from baseball lately. But, of course, that is none of my business. That is the affair of the other league."

Tener implied that Lannin's charges were far more in need of an investigation than the McGraw statement, which Tener said was given "in the heat of a temper."

It also is a slap at Johnson for his statements at the time of the McGraw incident, in which he accused the National League of lack of backbone if it did not investigate McGraw's charges, and added he would have rained Ned if the McGraw episode had happened in his league. Tener practically tells Ban to wash his own linen first.

Generals to Try Out Substitutes Tomorrow

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 20.—Although the game tomorrow with Roanoke College will be one of the two easy games on the Washington and Lee football schedule, Head Coach "Jigger" Block and Assistant Coach "Ligger" Donahue are looking forward to it with interest because it will be their final opportunity to give some of the substitutes and second string men a chance to show what they can do before the big games that will mark the remainder of the "Generals" season. So far in only the Randolph-Mason game on September 30 were the coaches able to send any of the second string men into play.

In the Army and Rutgers games the substitutes were few. Although the coaches are congratulating themselves that none of the regulars was injured in either of these games, the hard contests to come with Georgia Tech, Navy, Bucknell, Washington and Jefferson, and North Carolina A. & M. may make necessary the sending into play of what are now second string men, and practically every man on the squad will have a chance to show what he has in him tomorrow.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—Bill Neill, right guard on the Pennsylvania varsity eleven last year, has been declared ineligible by the faculty. He played three years with Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., an institution ranking with Dickinson in the East.

Water polo, water polo. That's no pastime for a fella. It's murder, arson, mayhem in a tank. They kick, maim, jab, maul each other. Each one tries to choke and smother. Even homicide is spared us as a prank!

In spite of efforts to eliminate roughness the football field is still no place to carry eggs in your pockets.

A ticket speculator's idea of that place is a town with nothing in it but a Carnegie Library.

Almost time for the lightweights to bust forth and then we'll see some of the boys pitch a no-hit fight.

Fortunately for sufferers from insomnia the lacrosse season is almost here.

Sydney Hatch ran one hundred miles the other day. Gosh, what a lightweight that boy would have made.

Ted Meredith was beaten over in Sweden. Not having read the papers, his opponents didn't know how good he was.

Only players who beat Mollie Bjurstedt this season were her partners on the doubles.

If professional golfer Hutchinson gets beat a few more times he will soon be an amateur again.

It takes two to make a fight, but only one to finish it.

Peace in Europe will strengthen the Western Pennsylvania eleven. As it is now all the foundries are working overtime.

WESTERN-CENTRAL TO MEET TUESDAY IN TITLE BATTLE

Today's Game Postponed and Schedule Shoved Back on Account of Wet Field.

By BRYAN MORSE.

Western and Central will meet Tuesday afternoon at American League Baseball Park weather permitting in the first clash of the scholastic football championship series. The recent rain has mired the field to such an extent that Groundkeeper Jim O'Dea at the ball park concluded it impossible to stage a contest today.

For this reason the faculty advisers came to the conclusion that all parties would be best served by setting the schedule back one date. With Western and Central opening up on Tuesday, Tech and Eastern will take the field on Friday next, one week from today. This brings the Business-Central clash on the following Tuesday.

Groundkeeper O'Dea found the field in pools of water this morning. The chalked lines were all washed out, and it was found impossible to get the field in playing shape. It has been the policy of the faculty advisers to stage the games on dry days rather than to force the teams through a muddy conflict.

The stipulation made by Manager Griffith that the turf must be dry made it impossible to stage the contest today. Jack Gasa had been selected to referee and Hunter McGuire to umpire. The faculty advisers are making an effort to obtain the services of Lieutenant Shaffroth, of the Army, to act as linesman.

The postponement of today's game throws out several well laid plans. Tech and Eastern as well as Business players were to attend today's game, and had not scheduled contests. No games were contemplated for tomorrow, as both Eastern and Business have played this week and Tech has scrimmaged against the Gallaudet Reserves.

Western and Central had light workouts in the mud yesterday, and were primed for the contest today. The teams will take things easy until their battle next Tuesday.

Gonsaga is scheduled to play the Alexandria High School eleven today, while tomorrow the Georgetown Prep will engage the Carroll Institute team which recently defeated Eastern High School. The Preps and Freshmen scrimmaged on the Hilltop yesterday afternoon in the absence of the varsity, which is going to meet Dartmouth tomorrow. During the Georgetown-Preps-Carroll Institute game the Georgetown-Dartmouth game will be announced.

The Georgetown Freshmen are journeying to Tome Institute to meet the Tome boys tomorrow afternoon. The Freshmen have a well balanced team and a couple of players who will make their marks next fall.

Paralysis Victim In Harvard Squad

Mild Case, Say the Doctors, and Football Team Will Play Saturday.

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 20.—Edwin Ginn, who has been playing football with the Harvard scrub team all fall, is at Stillman infirmary with what physicians believe is a mild case of infantile paralysis. He was taken ill Tuesday. Ginn, who comes from Winchester, Mass., is a member of a family of publishers. He has been with the football squad all season. He was on the second team this fall with quarters apart from the varsity men, but has been on the field with all the players. Dr. Roger I. Lee, professor of hygiene at Harvard, says the case isn't considered alarming and that the football men will not only continue practice, but will meet the Massachusetts State College team Saturday.

ALUMNI SWARMING TO SEE FOOTBALL CLASH

Georgetown and Dartmouth to Entertain Old Grads and Distinguished Officials.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Oct. 20.—New England's biggest football game of the season thus far will be staged here tomorrow in the new municipal stadium between Dartmouth and Georgetown before all the notables of three States, Maine, New Hampshire, and Massachusetts. All the leading officials from governors down to mayors have accepted invitations to assist in the dedication of the stadium. Furthermore the alumni of both Dartmouth and Georgetown are to witness the game, swelling the total attendance to some 12,000.

Dartmouth claims to have several first string men on the injured list, but the big Green team has shown so much strength over every opponent this season that it ranks favorite over the Southerners. Dartmouth's many alumni from Boston are coming in a body to see the contest.

Georgetown has never been seen on a gridiron in this section, and the many New England graduates of the Washington, D. C., institution are swarming like bees to obtain tickets for the game. Some of the alumni have not seen a Blue and Gray eleven since they left college, and their enthusiasm fairly ripples over the prospects of Georgetown to win from the New Hampshire team.

The Southerners are due to arrive here tonight from Ashburnham Country Club, where they are working out today. The Dartmouth hosts will also reach town tonight.

After Barnstormers.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The National Commission is on the trail of all major leaguers taking part in barnstorming games since the close of the season, and summary punishment will be dealt them. According to their contracts, permission must be given for such games, and no permission was given.

Some of the men who have played are Elmer Myers, Baker, Shawkey, Malsel, Beckinghous, Joe Bush, Chase, Schanz, Plank, Rixey, Byrne, Eddie Collins, Strunk, Bender, and most of the Red Sox and Giants.

BUFF AND BLUE TO STIR UP ENTHUSIASM

Mass Meetings Booked for Today in Three Places.

Three open-air meetings are scheduled for today by George Washington to arouse enthusiasm in tomorrow's football game at Union League Park between George Washington and Western Maryland. The Buff and Blue appears on a local gridiron for the first time in six years, and the outlook shows great interest in Coach Sullivan's side.

Dartmouth Loses Some Stars Before Contest

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 20.—Owing to injuries, several of Dartmouth's first-string players will not face Georgetown at Haverhill, Mass., tomorrow. Coach Cavanaugh prefers to use substitutes owing to the fact that Princeton must be played a week later. Dunamel and Merrill are almost sure to rest, while Trier and Cotton may remain on the sidelines.

Dillon Agrees to Make 163 Pounds for Gibbons

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Jack Dillon, Indianapolis light-heavyweight, today is slightly nearer a match with Mike Gibbons of St. Paul, through his agreement to make 163 pounds at 2 o'clock for the bout. Dillon has been holding out for 165, and Gibbons wanted 164.

Harry Sherman, St. Paul promoter, declared his belief that Gibbons should agree to the weight.

Gallaudet Will Play Fordham Next Month

Gallaudet has scheduled a game with Fordham at Fordham Field, November 25. The Kendall Greens do not appear to have a very strong team this year, but they are expected to offer some opposition to the Maroon.
